Infatuation by design

Intrigued by unconventional materials and aesthetics
Design Days Dubai Fair Director Cyril Zammit picks his highlights of the upcoming contemporary design fair

Horse bust

Known for its over-the-top creations, Studio Job has carved out a loyal fan base, which would appreciate the playfulness of the Horse Bust. Using polished bronze, 24K gold gilding, paint, hand-blown glass, LED and Nilfisk GM 80P, this piece is not for any old collector.

Men's valet

A dressing valet should be a staple in a man's home, and this valet should be a necessity in a man's environment. Designed in collaboration with luxury retailer Alexander McQueen, designer Fiona Barratt-Campbell's piece is a highly skilled work using materials such as gloss stained oak and crocodile skin.

Ceramic bowl

This year's Design Days Dubai will see the debut of French gallery Galerie Silbereis with a selection of ceramics by Alev Siesbye. These bowls are the epitome of quality, which only a talented ceramist could produce.

Tornado table

Zhoujie Zhang's latest series explores the geometrics of design. Creating a system that transforms digital programs into real objects, this stunning, brass Tornado Table is a result of a new mathematical approach to producing products.

Loulou rocking chair

This rocking chair is an item that I immediately fell in love with. Created by the dynamic design duo David/Nicolas, it is the perfect fusion of colours, materials and it is extremely comfortable! Loved it so much that I ordered mine and cannot wait until it arrives.

Split nude chair
 Designer Alex Hull's Split Nude Chair is a standout example of modern luxury. Its enveloping form, finishing and use of a leather and suede core collectively ooze comfort.

Black ash

The Southern Guild curated selection continues to be a favourite among visitors. Black Ash by David Krynauw will be no exception. Krynauw's creations continue to explore his love for woodwork as he produces pieces that speak to his audience and synchronize with their environment.

Hammer lamp

This lamp by Big Game might get lost among the larger items, but its understated finishing makes it a stand out piece. Its high quality finish and materials are testament to the designers at Wiener Silber Manufactur.

Details: All pieces will be on display at the fourth edition of Design Days Dubai. March 16 to 20, 2015. For more visit designdaysdubai.ae
