March 17 to 21

Design Days Dubai Dubai, UAE

Cyril Zammit, Design Days Dubai fair director, explains the annual design festival

What is Design Days Dubai?

The fair, in its third edition, will showcase works from 35 galleries from 21 countries, each bringing their own unique style of design - they are all highly collectible pieces, which are acquirable over the course of the fair.

When and why did Design Days Dubai launch?

The inaugural Design Days

Dubai was in 2012. Ben Floyd, one of the co-founders of Art Dubai [also taking place this month], approached me about developing a contemporary design fair that would be at a global standard. We wanted to capitalise on the growing interest for design in the region and the melting pot of creativity that's found in Dubai.

Why should people visit Design Days Dubai?

The highlights this year will include the first Discover, an annual focus on the contemporary design scene of a country. We start this year with France. Finally, the extended programme will enable design enthusiasts to learn techniques from professionals during three daily workshops, and renowned designers, including India Mahdavi and Arik Lévy, will share their passion during keynote lectures.
